

Packaged Food Displays

Creating a display of healthy packaged foods gives parents and carers a visual connection to foods that fit within the recommended guidelines.

The displays can also be helpful when talking with families and assist in the education of label reading. Getting the children to join in making these displays can be a great healthy eating learning experience.